<sup>1</sup> For women under 35. Virtually all clinics did transfers from women >35 and, for the most part, if a clinic had an exceptional success rate for women under 35, their success rate was comparatively high for older women as well

<sup>2</sup> Success rate is defined as live births per transfer attempt. Generally, live births per retrieval attempt will be about 5-20% lower since a certain percentage of retrievals do not result in transfers at all.
